

Da Lat

8 - 12 September 2026

Haris Haikal & Aina Izzaty · Malaysia Airlines via Saigon · one hotel, four nights
All fourteen of your places, grouped by direction. No churches, no temples.

The Five Days

| DAY   | DATE        | DIRECTION                  | YOUR PLACES                                                            | OUTFIT                               |
|-------|-------------|----------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Day 1 | Tue, 8 Sep  | Fly in + city              | Xuan Huong Lake, L'angfarm                                             | Soft blue + brown                    |
| Day 2 | Wed, 9 Sep  | East — Trại Mát → Cầu Đất  | Thác Mây, Euro Garden, Lạc Hư Cổ Trấn, Miền Du Mục                     | Cream fairytale                      |
| Day 3 | Thu, 10 Sep | North — Lạc Dương          | Pink Valley, Langbiang, Suối Bình Yên                                  | Soft pink + white · pm black leather |
| Day 4 | Fri, 11 Sep | West — Tà Nung, then south | Mongo Land, Floating Town, Cao Nguyên Hoa, Happy Hill, Datanla coaster | Blue + yellow                        |
| Day 5 | Sat, 12 Sep | Fly home                   | L'angfarm run                                                          | Khaki + black                        |

Book Tonight, In This Order

- 1 Ask Malaysia Airlines to reroute the CGK ticket to Saigon
MAS flies KUL-Saigon ~7 times a day (MH750 / MH758 / MH766). If they cancel Jakarta, ask to be moved to Saigon rather than refunded. +60 3-7843-3000
- 2 MAS KUL → SGN on 8 Sept (morning), SGN → KUL on 12 Sept (late afternoon)
Three hours on each side for the domestic connection.
- 3 Domestic: SGN → Da Lat on 8 Sept, Da Lat → SGN on 12 Sept
Vietnam Airlines or Vietjet, 55 min, six a day, last one 17:30. Or check AirAsia's KUL-Da Lat direct first (~4 days a week).
- 4 Hotel — four nights, one place, near Xuan Huong Lake
You never change hotels on this version.
- 5 Car with driver for days 2, 3 and 4
Day 2 needs a 04.40 pickup for the dawn cloud hunt. Book all three days with the same driver through the hotel — cheaper and he'll learn what you want.
- 6 Check Cao Nguyên Hoa and Miền Du Mục opening hours
Both are recent and their hours move. The hotel desk will know; so will their Facebook pages.
- 7 Cancel or move the Bandung bookings
Holiday Inn Pasteur, Swiss-Belresort Dago, Fairfield CGK — ask for a waiver citing the airport closure. Message Kiki.
- 8 Insurance, eSIM, offline maps
Re-issue for Vietnam; keep the Bandung paperwork for the claim.

Good To Know

|                                                                                                         |                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| VisaVisa-free for Malaysians, 30 days. Carry hotel bookings and onward tickets.              | MoneyVietnamese dong, cash for entry tickets. Most of these places charge 100-120k a head. | Weather17-24°C, cool nights. September is Da Lat's wettest month — rain comes afternoon and evening, so outdoor stops are front-loaded. |
| Entry feesFloating Town 100k and Lạc Hư Cổ Trấn 120k both include a drink. Pink Valley 100k. | Getting aroundGrab in the city; a booked car by the day for the out-of-town clusters.      | Want the beach too?Nha Trang is 135 km on QL27C, about 3 hours — the separate Da Lat + Nha Trang plan swaps Day 4 for the dry coast.    |

MAS out: _____ SGN → DLI: _____ DLI → SGN: _____ MAS home: _____
Hotel: _____ Driver: _____ Places and hours checked 6 Sept 2026 — re-confirm the newer spots locally.

DAY 1

Fly in — lake evening + L'angfarm

Tuesday, 8 September

START
Morning MAS from KLIA

FINISH
~21.30

SLEEP
Da Lat (4 nights, one hotel)

Outfit: Soft blue + brown — café theme for the first evening

| TIME                                                      | WHERE                                                                        | HOW LONG | NOTES                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-----------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| morning                                            | KUL → SGN — Malaysia AirlinesKLIA                                 | ~2h      | MH750 / MH758 / MH766, about 7 a day. Take one landing in Saigon by early afternoon. Vietnam is 1 hour behind Malaysia .                                                  |
| ~12.30                                             | Connect at Tan Son NhatSaigon — T2 international, T1 domestic     | ~3h      | On separate tickets you collect bags, walk to T1 and check in again. Three hours is the safe margin.                                                                             |
| ~15.30                                             | SGN → DLI — Vietnam Airlines or VietjetTan Son Nhat T1            | 55 min   | Six a day, last departure 17:30.                                                                                                                                                 |
| Lien Khuong airport → Da Lat city — 30 km, ~40 min |                                                                              |          |                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| ~17.30                                             | Check in — Da LatCity centre                                      | 1h       | One hotel for all four nights. Stay near Xuan Huong Lake and the centre is walkable.                                                                                             |
| ~18.30                                             | Xuan Huong LakeCity centreOpen in Google Maps | 1h       | The lake loop at dusk, lit up and full of locals. Five minutes from anywhere central — a gentle first evening.                                                                   |
| ~19.45                                             | Dinner + L'angfarm CenterDa Lat centre                            | 1.5h     | Da Lat's specialty-food store — dried fruit, artichoke tea, jam, coffee, macadamia. Do a first pass now and buy properly on the last morning so you're not carrying it all week. |

NOTES FOR THE DAY

- Da Lat sits at 1,500 m — 17–24°C, and evenings drop to about 17°C. Jacket out of the bag tonight.
- Simpler alternative: AirAsia flies KUL → Da Lat direct (AK571, 2h10), but only ~4 days a week — check whether 8 September is one, and if so skip the Saigon connection entirely.
- Grab works fine in Da Lat. For the out-of-town days, a car with driver by the day is easier and not expensive.

DAY 2

East — dawn clouds, Cau Dat, the old town

Wednesday, 9 September

START
05.00 (yes, really)

FINISH
~20.00

SLEEP
Da Lat

Outfit: Cream fairytale — Euro Garden's castle and the ancient town

| TIME                            | WHERE                                                                                                                             | HOW LONG | NOTES                                                                                                                                                                        |
|---------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 05.00                    | Thác Mây &amp; Chill — cloud hunting at dawnĐốc số 9, Trại Mát — 15–20 min eastOpen in Google Maps | 2h       | It opens at 05:00 precisely so you can watch cloud fill the ravine below you at first light. This is the one early start of the trip and it is the reason to make it. |
| ~30 min further east on QL20    |                                                                                                                                   |          |                                                                                                                                                                              |
| ~08.00                          | Breakfast at Cau Dat FarmCầu Đất, QL20                                                                                 | 1h       | Tea-hill breakfast on the way — coffee grown on the slope you're looking at.                                                                                                 |
| ~09.15                          | Euro Garden Cầu ĐấtQL20, ~25 km southeast (30–45 min)Open in Google Maps                           | 2.5h     | 7.2 hectares at 1,650 m: seasonal flower fields, a miniature French castle, an Eiffel Tower, and a railway café. The cream-fairytale location of the trip.                   |
| ~12.00                          | Lunch — Cau Dat tea hillsCầu Đất                                                                                       | 1h       | The tea terraces themselves are right here and free to walk.                                                                                                                 |
| ~25 min back toward Xuân Trường |                                                                                                                                   |          |                                                                                                                                                                              |
| ~13.45                          | Lạc Hư Cổ TrấnLâm Văn Thạnh road, Xuân TrườngOpen in Google Maps                                   | 2h       | Stone houses, tiled roofs and a blue lake done as a Chinese ancient town. ~120,000 VND including a drink; open 05:00–20:00. There's a gong performance area in the evening.  |
| ~5 min — same road              |                                                                                                                                   |          |                                                                                                                                                                              |
| ~16.00                          | Miền Du MụcLâm Văn Thạnh road, Xuân TrườngOpen in Google Maps                                      | 2.5h     | Canvas tents on grass looking out over pine hills — the nomad camp café. Built for sitting still, so don't rush it: stay for sunset.                                         |
| ~25 min back to the city        |                                                                                                                                   |          |                                                                                                                                                                              |
| ~19.30                          | Dinner in townDa Lat centre                                                                                            | 1h       |                                                                                                                                                                              |

NOTES FOR THE DAY

- Everything today is on the same eastern road, so nothing doubles back. Book the car the night before with a 04.40 pickup.
- Cloud hunting needs a clear-ish dawn. If it's pouring at 04.30, sleep in and start at Euro Garden instead — you can try again Friday.
- Cầu Đất is at 1,650 m and genuinely cold before sunrise. Jacket, and something warm to drink.

Da Lat, Vietnam · Haris Haikal & Aina Izzaty · DAY 2 · times are estimates, shuffle freely

DAY 3

North — Pink Valley, Langbiang, the quiet stream

Thursday, 10 September

START
07.45

FINISH
~21.00

SLEEP
Da Lat

Outfit: Soft pink + white all day · evening switch to black leather + white

| TIME                         | WHERE                                                                                                               | HOW LONG | NOTES                                                                                                                                                                               |
|------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 07.45                        | Drive north to Lạc Dương                                                                                            | —        | Opens at 07:00, so an early arrival gets you an empty valley.                                                                                                                       |
| ~08.30                       | Pink Valley (Thung Lũng Hồng)Lat village, Lạc Dương — 22 km northOpen in Google Maps | 2.5h     | A rose valley done as a romantic European garden. 100,000 VND entry, open 07:00–17:00. Pink and white here is the obvious pairing — and the light is best before eleven.            |
| ~20 min                      |                                                                                                                     |          |                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| ~11.30                       | LangbiangLạc Dương — ~12 km northOpen in Google Maps                                 | 2.5h     | The mountain over Da Lat. Take the jeep up to the Radar Peak viewpoint rather than walking — save your legs. Cloud comes and goes all day; wait it out with a coffee at the top.    |
| ~14.15                       | Lunch in Lạc DươngLạc Dương town                                                                         | 1h       |                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| ~30 min back toward the city |                                                                                                                     |          |                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| ~15.45                       | Suối Bình YênHoa Cẩm Tú Cầu street, Ward 3 — 10–15 min outOpen in Google Maps        | 2h       | A stream-side garden café, deliberately slow. It sits on Hydrangea Street , so the hydrangea fields are right there — they flower May to December, so they're in season now. |
| ~18.00                       | Back to the hotel, change                                                                                    | 1h       | Into the black leather and white — evenings here drop to about 17°C, the one place cold enough to wear it.                                                                          |
| ~19.15                       | Da Lat Night MarketCho Dem, city centreOpen in Google Maps                           | 2h       | Grilled corn, bánh tráng nướng, hot soy milk. The market stairs are the classic Da Lat night photo.                                                                                 |

NOTES FOR THE DAY

- Pink Valley and Langbiang are both in Lạc Dương, 10 minutes apart — one direction, no backtracking.
- Langbiang jeeps are shared or private; private costs a little more and lets you stop for photos.
- Suối Bình Yên is the trip's designated do-nothing hour. Take the book, not the itinerary.

DAY 4

West to Tà Nung, then the coaster

Friday, 11 September

START
07.45FINISH
~20.00SLEEP
Da Lat
Outfit: Blue + yellow — bright day, lake water and open grassland

| TIME                                                     | WHERE                                                                                                       | HOW LONG | NOTES                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|----------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 07.45                                             | Drive southwest on the Tà Nung road                                                                  | —        | A pretty pine-forest road in its own right. All three morning stops are on it.                                                                                                         |
| ~08.15                                            | Mongo LandTà Nung commune — 17 km southwestOpen in Google Maps               | 2h       | Mongolian steppe done as a theme park: yurts, horse riding, archery, nomad dress-up, a rainbow slide and a pet farm. Open 07:00–17:00.                                                 |
| ~10 min — same road                               |                                                                                                             |          |                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ~10.30                                            | Floating TownTà Nung route — 15–17 kmOpen in Google Maps                     | 2h       | Dark-tiled wooden houses standing out of an emerald lake. 100,000 VND including a drink and parking. The houses face west, so it photographs best later — but morning is calmer water. |
| ~12.45                                            | KDL Sinh Thái Cao Nguyên HoaTà Nung areaOpen in Google Maps                  | 1.5h     | Flower-highland eco park, and lunch nearby. Confirm the exact spot and opening hours with your hotel the night before — I could not verify them from here.                      |
| ~40 min back through the city, then south on QL20 |                                                                                                             |          |                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ~15.00                                            | Happy HillĐá Tiên, Hoa Phượng Tím st, Ward 4 — 12 kmOpen in Google Maps      | 1.5h     | Film-set park on Tuyen Lam lake — windmills, colour, staged photo corners. Open 07:00–17:30, so this has to come before the coaster.                                                   |
| ~15 min                                           |                                                                                                             |          |                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| ~16.45                                            | Datanla — new alpine coasterQL20, ~5 km south of the cityOpen in Google Maps | 1.5h     | The rebuilt alpine coaster down through the forest, and the falls at the bottom. You control the brake; go once slow for the video, once fast for fun.                                 |
| ~19.00                                            | Dinner in townDa Lat centre                                                                      | 1h       |                                                                                                                                                                                        |

NOTES FOR THE DAY

- The full day of the four. If it slips, drop Cao Nguyên Hoa — it's the least certain of the three morning stops.
- Happy Hill closes at 17:30 and Datanla's last coaster runs late afternoon, so keep the 15.00 arrival at Happy Hill honest.
- Elephant Falls and Nam Ban village are further along the same Tà Nung road — see the nearby page if you want to stretch the morning.

Da Lat, Vietnam · Haris Haikal &amp; Aina Izzaty · DAY 4 · times are estimates, shuffle freely

DAY 5

Last morning, then home

Saturday, 12 September

START
08.00

FINISH
KUL

SLEEP
—

Outfit: Khaki + black — travel day

| TIME                                                       | WHERE                                                                                           | HOW LONG | NOTES                                                                                                         |
|------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 08.00                                               | Breakfast + last caféDa Lat centre                                                   | 1h       |                                                                                                               |
| ~09.15                                              | L'angfarm Center — the real shopDa Lat centreOpen in Google Maps | 45 min   | Buy the dried fruit, artichoke tea, jam and coffee now, on the way out, so it travels once. They vacuum-pack. |
| Da Lat → Lien Khuong airport (DLI) — 30 km, ~40 min |                                                                                                 |          |                                                                                                               |
| ~11.30                                              | DLI → SGN — Vietnam Airlines or VietjetLien Khuong                                   | 55 min   |                                                                                                               |
| ~13.30                                              | Connect at Tan Son NhatSaigon — T1 domestic → T2 international                       | ~3h      | Collect bags at T1, walk to T2, check in for MAS.                                                             |
| late afternoon                                      | SGN → KUL — Malaysia AirlinesTan Son Nhat T2                                         | ~2h      | Malaysia is 1 hour ahead, so you land later on the clock than the flight time suggests.                       |

NOTES FOR THE DAY

- Lien Khuong is 30 km south of the city — leave more time than the distance suggests, especially on a Saturday.
- If AirAsia's Cam Ranh or Da Lat direct happens to fly on the 12th, it saves the whole Saigon connection.

Nearby, if you have time

Swap-ins and add-ons, listed by which day they fit

| PLACE                                                                                     | WHERE                   | WHY, AND WHEN TO SLOT IT IN                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Thác Voi (Elephant Falls) + Nam Ban villageOpen in Google Maps | 25 km southwest         | Add to Day 4. Further along the same Tà Nung road as Mongo Land — a big, loud waterfall you climb down beside, and a silk-weaving village. Thunderous in green season.                      |
| Đồi chè Cầu Đất (tea hills)Open in Google Maps                 | 25 km southeast         | Already on Day 2 — the terraces surround Euro Garden. Free to walk; best in the early cloud.                                                                                                |
| Ma Rừng Lữ QuánOpen in Google Maps                             | Lạc Dương, ~20 km north | Add to Day 3. A forest camp and garden in the pines past Langbiang — quiet, ramshackle, very photogenic.                                                                                    |
| Đankia - Suối Vàng (Golden Stream)Open in Google Maps          | Lạc Dương, ~17 km north | Add to Day 3. Big open reservoir and grassland under Langbiang. Best in late light.                                                                                                         |
| Hồ Tuyền Lâm + Clay TunnelOpen in Google Maps                  | 6–10 km south           | Add to Day 4. Both are minutes from Happy Hill. The Clay Tunnel is a sculpted red-clay history of Da Lat — odd and good.                                                                    |
| Thác PongourOpen in Google Maps                                | 50 km south, ~1h15      | Half-day of its own. The biggest waterfall in the region, seven tiers wide — at its most powerful right now in the wet season. Worth swapping a cluster for if you want one big nature day. |
| Trại Mát hydrangea fieldsOpen in Google Maps                   | 7 km east               | Already on Day 3 via Suối Bình Yên — the fields are on the same Hydrangea Street. In flower May to December.                                                                                |
| Nha TrangOpen in Google Maps                                   | 135 km on QL27C, ~3h    | The dry-coast alternative: leave after Day 3, spend Days 4–5 on the beach, fly home from Cam Ranh. Separate PDF.                                                                                   |

HOW TO USE THIS PAGE

- Nothing here is required — the four days already hold your fourteen places.
- Use this page when a stop closes, the rain sets in, or something turns out to be a fifteen-minute photo stop rather than an afternoon.
- If you only add one: Elephant Falls on Day 4, because it's already on your route.